

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An optical assembly has two mechanically matched substrates, each substrate including structures, such as circuits and circuit elements, that are in shapes complementary to the structures on the other substrate. At least one substrate includes a clipgate for at least one optical component.